

Claire Anderson

Claire Anderson is a TV Meteorologist who has been forecasting the weather around the country for almost 10 years. Claire is a mental health and suicide awareness advocate after losing her father and sorority sister to suicide in her early 20s. Claire has been active in the American Foundation of Suicide Awareness Foundation, emceeding events to support the cause and speaking out and sharing her experience on social media about the stigma of mental health and suicide.

For her professional career, Claire recently moved to Washington DC in April to work for FOX 5 DC as a Morning Meteorologist Monday through Friday. Before that move, she was a meteorologist at KIRO 7 News in Seattle, WA for 4 years, starting in 2018. Claire worked at KOIN CBS in Portland, OR. Her work history also includes Santa Barbara,

CA and Great Falls, Montana. Claire is a native of Enumclaw, Washington and went to Enumclaw High School. She is currently active in working with students at her alma mater high school to talk about broadcasting and video production.

She graduated from the University of Washington with a degree in communications and is a Certified Meteorologist through Mississippi State Broadcast Meteorology Program. When she's not forecasting the weather, she loves to spend time with family, play volleyball and tennis, and explore the outdoors.
